

Professor Patrick Le Galès is Director of Urban Studies (Ecole Urbaine) and Research Professor of Sociology and Politics, at Sciences Po, Centre d'Etudes Européennes and he chairs the "Cities are back in town" and "Restructuring the state" research groups.

His research deals with, inter alia, Comparative public policy, policy instruments and the political sociology of the state; Urban sociology/urban political economy in large metropolis and European cities (middle classes, governance, urban conflicts, mobility, economic development, inequalities).

He is currently working on a project comparing modes of governance (What is governed?) and urban development in Paris, London, São Paulo, Mexico.

Patrick Le Galès

POLICY INSTRUMENTS AND THE GOVERNANCE OF LARGE METROPOLIS

Thursday 16 February 2016

16-18h00

Far West Studio, John Moffat Building

Wits Main campus

RSVP: Thammy.Jezile@wits.ac.za; CC: Busi.Nkosi@wits.ac.za

