

WP HES Working Papers in Higher Education Studies

CALL FOR PAPERS

Working Papers in Higher Education Studies (WPHEs) is pleased to announce a call for papers for its upcoming issue. WPHEs is an international, peer-reviewed, open-access e-journal of working papers, stemming from the Erasmus Mundus Programme Master in Research and Innovation in Higher Education (MaRIHE) and the Master Programme in Higher Education Studies and Development (MHESD). The series intends to stimulate debate and exchange of research ideas that are in an early stage of development.

WPHEs focuses on studies in higher education, and publishes research articles that explore the topic from a broad array of academic disciplines, methodologies, and perspectives. We particularly encourage submissions of research that discuss current changes and interactions within the 'knowledge triangle' of research, innovation and higher education. Suggestions for special issues on particular topics as well as contributions in the form of book reviews are also welcome.

While authors from any stage of their career are welcome for submission, the series intends to incorporate and develop papers from emerging authors, providing a space for post-graduate students, early-career researchers, academics and young professionals to present their 'works in progress' to a broad readership and connect with established experts.

Full papers for the next issue should be submitted by 30 April 2015. Submissions should be made via our website and adhere to our style guidelines.

Should you have any questions do not hesitate to contact us at wphes@wphes-journal.eu

We look forward to reading your submissions.

Sincerely,
The WPHEs Editorial Team.
